

Michael F.R. Harris, Esq.

Michael F.R. Harris has over 30 years of commercial litigation experience, with emphasis on securities, class actions, employment law, contract disputes, constitutional law, and appellate litigation. He serves as litigation attorney and chief litigation strategist on employment law litigation and agency matters, counsels attorneys and clients on solutions and possible outcomes, advises on complex employment law agreements, and drafts policies and agreements.

Michael was formerly a partner at Dechert, LLP and in addition to practicing as an employment law attorney at Loutel Law, he is also an independent contract attorney at Bazelon Less and Feldman, PC.

Michael is a magna cum laude graduate of Harvard Law School and received his undergraduate degree, summa cum laude, from Dartmouth College.